

UNIVERSITY OF NEW ENGLAND

LECTURER IN BEHAVIOURAL GENETICS/EVOLUTIONARY
PSYCHOLOGY

School of Behavioural, Cognitive and Social Sciences

Further Information

More information about psychology at UNE can be found here (<http://www.une.edu.au/bcss/psychology/>).

Duties

1. Contribute to teaching in psychology's programs.
2. Supervise fourth year and postgraduate student research projects.
3. Pursue an active and productive research program.
4. Contribute to administration within the School.

Selection Criteria

Essential

1. PhD in a relevant area.
2. Demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching at the university level.
3. Ability to contribute to teaching of core topics in psychology.
4. Demonstrated potential to build a strong research program.
5. Excellent communication skills.
6. Specialization in behavioural genetics and/or evolutionary psychology.

Desired

1. Expertise in methodologies and statistical analyses relevant to behavioural genetics.