Body, Edmund Cuthbert, Diaries and Business Records	The diaries record the everyday events of life on a sheep station, giving an account of work in progress as well as details of family life. Some of the early diaries include shearing tallies showing dates, names of shearers employed and the numbers shorn by each. The tallies are for 1884, 1885 and 1897 and all relate to Jindabyne station. Born in Devonshire, England in 1843, Edmund Cuthbert Body came to Australia with his father (F. E. Body) in 1850. He married Catherine	1884-1930	A134

	Campbell of Inverell in 1880, and subsequently took up "Jindabyne" station, near Mt. Kosciusko. After 20 years he sold "Jindabyne", and in partnership with his sons owned "Strathbogie", "Ulupna" and "Mole Vale" in the New England region. 214 cm.

Brindley Park, Merriwa: Records	A small but interesting accession. It contains miscellaneous accounts (1831-51); a daybook (1838-62) and a station diary (1878); all relate to the Bettington property "Brindley Park", Merriwa. The earlier account book has wages, rations and slop accounts; shoemaker's and blacksmith's accounts; wool weights; sheep slaughtered, and sheep sent to the Castlereagh; and accounts of goods lent to, and borrowed from, other gentlemen in the colony. It is clear from the records that the property was being worked with the help of a considerable number of assigned servants. 3 vols	1831-1862, 1878.	A229
Brindley Park, Merriwa: Records	This accession, from the pastoral property of J.B. Bettington in the Upper Hunter district, contains only two volumes. Viz. (i) Station Journal	1877-1897	A136 of Accounts (1877-82, 1891-7); and (ii) Station Diary, 1887. The gap in the Journal for 1882-91 is unexplained. The diary (probably penned by Bettington himself) contains quite detailed references to the daily business of the station. The writer also has occasion to remark upon the weather, horse-racing and his current state of health. 2 vol

Many of these papers discuss two of his major interests, education and constitutional issues. A complete list of this material is available on request.	1874-1965	A248

	David Henry Drummond (1890-1965) first entered public life in 1920 as one of the elected members to State Parliament from the Northern Tablelands. Upon the return of single-member seats in 1927, Drummond was elected the member for Armidale, the position he retained until 1949. Within the Country Party that he helped to create, he campaigned tirelessly for the separation of the New England region as a new state. In 1931 he was prominent in the merger of the New State Movement ideals with his political party to form the United Country Party. During this time, he also held the education portfolio through three successive governments. This emphasis on education was evident when, in 1929, he established the first rural teacher's college at Armidale, thus decentralising tertiary education in New South Wales. This commitment to rural education was also shown in his instrumental support of the creation of the New England University College in 1938. In 1949 David Henry Drummond won the seat of New England in the Federal Parliament and became an influential back-bencher with an interest in

Glenariff Station, Byrock: Records	"Glenariff" is a large station in the Western Division of N.S.W., about 50 miles to the south-east of Bourke. In 1912, it belonged to Garret Byrnes; but by 1914 (when the diaries commence) had passed to Allan Waugh. One of the main series in the record	1908-46	A163

	group is the station diaries (32 vols), 1914-15, 1917-46 kept by a succession of managers. Another important series is the letterbooks (13 vols) 1939-49, in which are copies of letters (reports) sent by the current manager to the owner. A related series is drafts of letters sent (manager to owner), 1932-5. Account books re "Glenariff" are disappointingly few in number, and patchy in coverage: store accounts (1908-13); miscellaneous accounts (1912-13, 1927). A wages and rations book (1919-25) and ledger and wages book (1928-39) make up the balance of the accession.

Massey Papers	The correspondences and various possessions of James Massey make up the majority of this accession. James Massey enlisted in the Australian Imperial Force in 1916, and many of the letters give details of the home fronts of Scotland and New South Wales as well as the battlefields. While in the trenches of France, Massey was exposed to poison gas, which	1914-1949	A140 permanently damaged his vocal chords, causing him to speak in a hoarse whisper for several years. The letters and possessions of James' brother Stan Massey , as well as those of other members of the immediate family, are also included amongst this material. Stan Massey was a schoolteacher, and much of his possessions relates to the classroom. 10 Boxes of Glass Negatives, 6 Boxes

Mcdouall Family Papers	Extracts from the shipboard diary of Rawdon McDouall, from England to Australia, 1840-1841; 13 letters to him in N.S.W. from his family, living in England, 1840-1849, 1874; a few letters written by Rawdon to family members and 3 small amounts of official correspondence and legal documents relating to "Eulowrie" and "Ulumbarella", 1845-1855. Further records include genealogical notes, a station diary (microfilm) by an unidentified member of the family, 1878-1888, and a business letter to Mrs. M.S. McDouall, dated Dunbeacon, Upper Horton, 1 Sept. 1930. These records are all	1840-1930	A362

	photocopies. The originals are in the possession of the McDouall family. Rawdon McDouall (b.20 Sept. 1823) was the son of the Reverend William McDouall of Bedfordshire. In 1840, he emigrated to Australia and in 1845 he became part-owner of "Moona Plains", a pastoral station east of Walcha. Later interests in the Gwydir district included the "Eulowrie" run, c.1851-55 and "Ulumbarella" (south of Bingara) where he lived from 1852 until his death in 1884. 20 folders, 1 microfilm reel.
Mcintyre, Mrs. Eleanor (Nee Broun), Catherine Mary Emily Broun and Honora Kelly: Diaries and Other Papers	The center of this collection is the 51 diaries of Mrs. Eleanor McIntyre (nee Broun) spanning the years 1910 to 1974. The miscellaneous correspondences, programs, publications and photographs of the Country Women's Association, of which Eleanor McIntyre was a founding member, are also contained in this material. The records of Raino station, Tingha, run by Eleanor Macintyre's sister, Catherine Mary Emily Broun, are another facet of this collection. This includes the financial records and business correspondences relating to the station in the years 1920 and 1934 to 1968. The final element of this collection is the typescript copies of the poetry and prose, written between 1880 and 1890, of Honora Kelly of Bundarrania station. Honora Kelly had close ties with the Broun family, who actually had some connection with the publication of her poems. 21 Photographs, 6 Boxes, 1 large picture.
Mckay, Dr. Stewart, of Lismore: Papers	The majority of the sketch-maps, notes, correspondences, newspaper cuttings and photographs of Dr. Stewart McKay concern the controversial aspects of the ascent of Mt. Lindesay by Captain Logan in August of 1828. The argument, apparent in both the correspondences and letters to the editor of Dr. Stewart McKay, raged during this period as to whether Captain Logan, a member of Allan Cunningham's exploration party, actually climbed Mt. Lindsay or instead, ascended one of the nearby peaks such as Mt. Barney. This accession also includes offprints of a series of articles on local history and a copy of the Third Annual Report of the Clarence River Historical Society, both printed in the Grafton Daily	1938-1952.	A176

Museum D'histoire Naturelle, Le Havre: Baudin Papers (Papers of The Expedition To New Holland By Nicolas Baudin	The miscellaneous drawings, reports and observations of the expedition, sponsored by the Institut de France, to complete the cartography of New Holland. This material describes not only New Holland but also the surrounding islands and even locations passed on the voyage from France. Included among this material are statistical reports about the state of New South Wales and notes on Port Jackson where the members of the expedition spent the months of June to November, 1802. The complete account of the expedition was written in three volumes between 1807 and 1816 and the rough draft of	1800-1804	A318

	some of this material is a part of the collection. Due to the death of Nicolas Baudin in Mauritius before the end of the expedition, the official account was written by F. H. Peron and Louis de Freycinet. The expedition set out from Le Havre on the 19th of October, 1800 aboard the vessels Le Geographe and Le Naturaliste. Although the members of the crew spent a pleasant six months in Sydney during 1802, word reached Governor King soon after their departure that it was the French crew's intent to annex Van Dieman's Land. H.M.S. Cumberland was sent in pursuit and reasserted British sovereignty by overtaking the vessels at King Island. Although Baudin himself wanted to examine the island for purely scientific reasons, the same could not be said for his ambitious young officers. Upon settlement of this dispute, the ship Le Naturaliste was sent back to France with all the natural history specimens, while Baudin sailed on to Timor and beyond. Just east of Port Essington, the ship ran low on both water and stores at the same time that Baudin became ill. Le Geographe made it to Mauritius where, on the 16th of

Page Papers	A large and highly miscellaneous collection of papers accumulated over nearly 60 years in the life of an eminent and many-sided Australian. Speeches, press-releases, correspondence and notes on medical, political, social, economic and family matters concerning Earle Page at various times in his long career.	1903-66.	A180

	A provisional list (ts, 7pp.) is available in the Archives. Sir Earle Christmas Grafton Page, K.C.M.G., (1880-1961) was born in Grafton N.S.W. Educated at Grafton Public and Sydney High Schools and at the University of Sydney (which he entered at the unusually early age of 15 years), Page studied medicine, graduating M.B., Ch.M. In 1903, Page set up a medical practice in Grafton specialising in surgery. He served with the A.I.F in France and Egypt (1916-17) as a medical officer. In 1918 he became Mayor of South Grafton, the first step in a long political career. A founding member of the Australian Country Party, Page was elected to the House of Representatives in 1919. He rose to the positions of Treasurer, Postmaster-General, Minister for Health, Acting Prime Minister and briefly (for 19 days in April 1939) held the high office of Prime Minister. In 1938 he had become a Privy Councillor and spent much of his time during the second world war in London. of special significance to members of the University of New England is the fact that Earle Page was the first Chairman of the New England University College Council and First Chancellor of the University

Wallabadah Records, 1869-1902 [Copies].	Xerox copies of miscellaneous papers from "Wallabadah", used by Mr. Stephen Ellis in preparing his B.A. (Hons) thesis to fulfil the requirements of the History Department at the University of New England, Armidale, N.S.W. The documents include: Deed of Sale (of Wallabadah Station) 17 Nov 1869; Wallabadah Letters Received, 1869-1902, and Wallabadah Accounts, 1871-2, 1890-1900 (mainly re wool and sheep sales). Originals are in the possession of General J.M.L. MacDonald of "Wallabadah", Wallabadah, N.S.W. 3 folders	1869-1944	A147a
Wallabadah Records	This accession consists largely of the records of "Wallabadah" Station, including letterbooks (1871 - 1929), ledgers (1869 - 1921), journals (1869 - 1907),	1869-1944	A147

	shearers' tally and wool books (1871 - 1943), sheep stud books (1874 - 1910), a small quantity of minor records, and the diaries of J.M.L. MacDonnell (1871 - 1931, with gaps), J.M.L. MacDonald jr (1930-31, 1933-34) and H.L. MacDonald (1897 - 1944, with gaps). The single item of greatest interest, however, is the so-called Wallabadah Manuscript, the memoirs of William Telfer Jr, who was a station hand on "Wallabadah" at the time of writing, c.1903. This records the author's memories of life in Tamworth and district from the 1840's onward, and is a document of the greatest interest for the social history and Aboriginal folklore of that area.
