“You’re not J Smith- I’m J Smith”:* Making your ORCID profile work for you!

Pauline Jenkins
Researcher Services Librarian

This seminar will look at...

- What is ORCID?
- Why it is an essential tool for researchers
- Making your ORCID profile work for you
- Where to from here?

What is ORCID?

ORCID stands for...

Open Researcher and Contributor Identifier

- Aims to solve name ambiguity amongst authors in academic research
- Aims to support automated linkages between you and your research output
- Persistent, unique identifier
- 16 digits, with either numbers or Xs, for example:

- 0000-0002-9756-0439 or
- 0000-0002-9079-593X

IDs are a subset of International Standard Name Identifier

ORCID is...

- Free
- Your online CV
- You have control of your ORCID profile/webpage
- Independent identifier
- Mobile- If you leave UNE, your ORCID goes with you!
- International
- Interdisciplinary
- May improve discoverability and attribution!

Not another author ID?

The logo for ResearcherID, featuring the text "ResearcherID" in white on a dark grey rectangular background.

ResearcherID

- ResearcherID
 - Platform dependent- tied to Web of Science
 - Limited to your research covered by WoS (partial coverage)
 - Some control (create, can hide profile, etc.)

The logo for Scopus Author Identifier, featuring the text "Scopus Author Identifier" in white on a blue rectangular background.

Scopus Author Identifier

- Scopus author ID
 - Platform dependent- tied to Scopus
 - Limited to your research covered by Scopus (partial coverage)
 - Automatically assigned by Scopus to authors indexed by Scopus
 - Minimal control- automatic- you can request corrections

- Google Scholar profile (good coverage for HASSE area)
 - Tied to Google Scholar platform
 - Cannot tailor
 - Some control (create, can hide, etc)

- Others?

Not another author ID!

different!*

- platform independent!
 - Not platform dependent (unlike ResearcherID with WoS; or Scopus author IDs with Scopus);
 - Instead can be used across platforms- with ResearcherID, Scopus, and the new UNE repository (RUNE)!
- All your research (but depends on you!)
- Your page- you have control- edit or delete as you need to, add in websites, biography, etc.
- Good privacy/control settings for individual content

Some stats!

- ORCID statistics:
 - Currently over 5 million live ORCID iDs
 - Over 1.4 million with education affiliations
 - Some well-known members include:
 - Nobel laureate Peter Doherty,
 - Corporate Vice President of Microsoft Research Jeannette Wing
 - Stephen Hawking,
 - And more (see Wikipedia ORCID/examples).

A brief history of ORCID

2009	November 9: “Thomson Reuters and Nature Publishing Group convened the first ‘Name Identifier Summit’ in Cambridge, MA,...where a cross-section of the research community explored approaches to address name ambiguity...” (ORCID, 2009). December: follow up meeting announced the ORCID initiative.
2010	non-profit ORCID organisation created in Delaware USA
2012	October: starts issuing identifiers and growing- https://orcid.org/members
2015	Joint statement from Australian research sector (CAUL, ARMS, ANDS, Universities Australia) “proposes that Australia’s research sector broadly embrace the use of ORCID as a common researcher identifier” (Simons, 2015) Joint statement in support by ARC and NHMRC (ANDS, 2018) (we’ll look at this more closely later)
2016	2016 (February): Australian ORCID consortium launched with 40 institutional members, incl. majority of Australian Universities, ARC, NHMRC, CSIRO, Heart Research Institute, etc. (ANDS, 2018).
2018	Currently over 5 million live ORCID IDs and 910 ORCID member organizations across the world https://orcid.org/members

Australian Universities support

Strong support/ uptake of ORCID by Australian Universities, ranging from encouragement to being mandatory!

For example:

- University of Western Australia- all UWA researchers are required to register for an ORCID
- University of Melbourne- ORCID compulsory for all academic staff
- University of South Australia- has made it mandatory for their authors to have an ORCID, Scopus (where available) and ResearcherID
- Endorsed by the UNE University Research Committee

University of New England

- University of New England is an ORCID member!
 - <https://orcid.org/members>
- One of UNE Library research services aims is to support academic community establish ORCIDs!
- Contact Libraryresearch@une.edu.au

Why is it an essential tool for researchers?

ORCID...

“... a persistent digital identifier that distinguishes you from every other researcher; and, through integration in key research workflows such as manuscript and grant submission, supports automated linkages between you and your professional activities ensuring that your work is recognized”

(ORCID, 2018).

1) The problems of misattribution and low discoverability

- When researchers search your name in databases, research that is yours may not be discovered or may be misattributed
- If your work is being discovered less, this probably means less citations!
- Web of Science author index shows many Barnes, C!

- Someone else having your author name;
- name change (e.g. married name);
- career change (e.g. Science to Education);
- change in affiliations;
- slight variation in author name (e.g. middle initial) across publications;
- searchers not knowing how to effectively search/check/identify in clumsy and inaccurate databases
- Scopus assigning multiple IDs to one author and splitting up publication list;
- errors in database information, e.g. misspelling of author name; wrong affiliation for UNE (US instead of Australia);
- Author claiming another's work (e.g. GS) by mistake
- others?

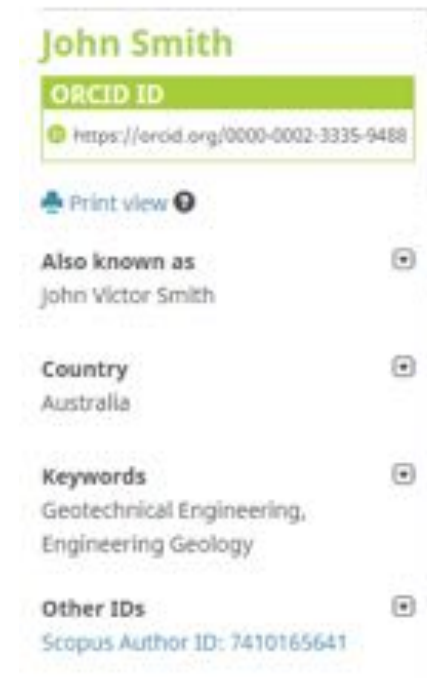

*“You’re not J.
Smith–
I’m J. Smith!”*

ORCID can help...

- “The use of ORCID facilitating disambiguation of researchers and research outputs....” (NHMRC 2015 statement).
- A complete ORCID profile will allow researchers/ administrators/ librarians to check if a publication is yours.
- Research output/articles with your ORCID icon will allow better attribution and access via article links (increased access/discoverability may mean possibly more citations).

“I’m J. Smith!”

 0000-0002-3335-9488

Distinguish yourself

- ORCID distinguishes you from other authors with the same author name...
- Example: two authors in Faculty of HASSE/English with same name

Professor John S. Ryan	Dr John C. Ryan
Ryan, J.S. 	Ryan, J.C.

- If we have an article authored by Ryan, J. or Ryan, John how do we know who that article belongs to?
- An ORCID profile can help disambiguate, plus “having links on journal articles, datasets and other research output minimises misattribution” (Akers, 2016).

Some databases ORCID ID searchable!

An ORCID can increase accuracy of searching for an author in a database

- Web of Science
- Scopus
 - use need to associate your ORCID to your Scopus author ID
- Altmetrics (advanced search)
- ORCID

WoS is ORCID searchable!

The screenshot shows the Web of Science search interface. At the top, the 'Web of Science' logo is on the left, and the 'Clarivate Analytics' logo is on the right. Below the logo, there is a search bar with the text 'Search'. To the right of the search bar, there are links for 'Tools', 'Searches and alerts', 'Search History', and 'Marked List'. Below the search bar, there is a dropdown menu labeled 'Select a database' with the text 'All Databases' and a 'Learn More' link. To the right of the dropdown menu, there is a green icon and the text 'Get one-click access to full text. Install Kopernio today.' Below the search bar, there are three tabs: 'Basic Search', 'Cited Reference Search', and 'Advanced Search'. The 'Basic Search' tab is selected. Below the tabs, there is a search input field containing the text '0000-0002-1616-6094'. To the right of the input field, there is a dropdown menu labeled 'Author identifiers' with a 'Search' button and a 'Search tips' link. Below the input field and dropdown menu, there are links for '+ Add new' and 'Reset'.

- Thomson Reuters is a founding member of ORCID initiative (Clarivate Analytics, 2018).
- Clarivate Analytics \(2018\) states that “ResearcherID and ORCID are complementary attribution identifiers. They go hand-in-hand and it is essential that scholarly authors and researchers have both. ORCID is a platform-agnostic identifier, whereas the ResearcherID identifier is specific to Clarivate Analytics”.
- Search the ORCID identifier in Web of Science by changing the drop-down box to ‘Author identifiers’, e.g. Cameron Barnes 0000-0002-9756-0439
- More accurate than searching by author name, e.g. Barnes, C. or Barnes, Cameron

Scopus can be made ORCID searchable!

2) How to build trust in a digital age?

- “ORCID is part of the wider digital infrastructure needed for researchers to share information on a global scale. We enable transparent and trustworthy connections between researchers, their contributions, and affiliations by providing an identifier for individuals to use with their name as they engage in research, scholarship, and innovation activities (ORCID mission statement, 2012)”.
- ORCID (2015) “lays the foundation for trust in a digital research environment.... Alleviating need to re-enter publication data in multiple systems.... Also provides an independent assertion of connection between author and their work!”

ORCID...

“... a persistent digital identifier that distinguishes you from every other researcher; and,

through integration in key research workflows such as manuscript and grant submission, supports automated linkages between you and your professional activities ensuring that your work is recognized”

(ORCID, 2018).

More journals wanting ORCIDs

- More journals/publishers are either:
 - encouraging (e.g. Taylor & Francis) or
 - requiring (e.g. PLOS for corresponding authors) authors to have an ORCID to help distinguish them from other authors;
- “Wiley is a founding member of ORCID and is now making an ORCID number mandatory in the submission process to its journals” (Citrome, 2016)

“ORCID lays the foundation for trust in a digital research environment...”

This paper reports on how teachers, from different cities in Brazil, used groups on Facebook and how communication between

ARTICLE HISTORY
Received 29 February 2016
Accepted 27 July 2016

- Increasingly more articles are displaying ORCID links
 - Taylor & Francis article:
<http://ezproxy.une.edu.au/login?url=http://dx.doi.org/10.1080/17404622.2016.1219039>
 - Wiley article: <http://ezproxy.une.edu.au/login?url=http://dx.doi.org/10.1002/rev3.3093>
- Links increase accessibility, which may increase citations!
- Similar to Google scholar profile author links increasing access!
- See Cameron Barnes ORCID for integrated GS profile

More grants wanting ORCIDs

- Some grants now “encourage” all researchers to have an ORCID
 - As mentioned previously NHMRC and ARC 2015
 - “The National Health and Medical Research Council (NHMRC) and Australian Research Council (ARC) encourage all researchers applying for funding to have an ORCID identifier”
- ORCID for funding organizations
<https://orcid.org/content/orcid-funding-organizations>
- Tip: Add your ORCID to your grant application

Make yourself discoverable and increase chance of citations!

- Increasing points of access to your work will increase its discoverability
- Add your ORCID everywhere!
- The more people who discover your work, the more chance of citations!

Making your ORCID profile work for you

Register for ORCID

The screenshot shows the ORCID registration page. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links: FOR RESEARCHERS (highlighted in green), FOR ORGANIZATIONS, ABOUT, HELP, and SIGN IN. Below this, there are three buttons: SIGN IN, REGISTER FOR AN ORCID ID (highlighted in green), and LEARN MORE. On the right side, it says '5,147,166 ORCID iDs and counting'. The main heading is 'Register for an ORCID iD'. Below this, there is a paragraph explaining that ORCID provides a persistent digital identifier and that users can only register for an ORCID ID for themselves. The registration form includes fields for First name, Last name, Primary email, and Additional email. There are also links for 'Add another email' and 'Add another ORCID iD'.

Register for an ORCID iD

ORCID provides a persistent digital identifier that distinguishes you from every other researcher through integration in key research workflows such as manuscript and grant submission, supporting automated linkages between you and your professional activities ensuring that your work is recognized.

Per ORCID's terms and conditions , you may only register for an ORCID ID for yourself.

Additional email

Add another email

- Go to <https://orcid.org/register>
- Fill in the form!
- You will receive an email – follow its directions
- Just create one ID!

Editing your ORCID record

- To make changes to your webpage, click 'sign in' or 'edit your record', enter your email and password
- To edit, click the pencil
- Delete using the trash symbol
- Can set privacy level for individual items!

The screenshot displays the ORCID iD website interface. At the top, there is a search bar and navigation tabs for 'FOR RESEARCHERS', 'FOR ORGANIZATIONS', 'ABOUT', 'HELP', and 'SIGN OUT'. Below these are links for 'MY ORCID RECORD', 'INBOX (2)', 'ACCOUNT SETTINGS', 'DEVELOPER TOOLS', and 'LEARN MORE'. The main content area shows the profile of Pauline Jenkins, including her ORCID ID (https://orcid.org/0000-0002-4696-5727) and a biography. The 'Education' section lists three institutions: University of Technology Sydney, University of New South Wales, and University of Sydney. Each entry has a pencil icon for editing and a trash icon for deletion. A sidebar on the left contains links for 'Display your iD on other sites', 'Public record print view', 'Get a QR Code for your iD', 'Also known as', 'Country', 'Keywords', and 'Websites'.

ORCID - a powerful new tool...

- allowing personal curation of your work
- increasing research discoverability/access via links increasing the chance of citations
- allowing you to distinguish yourself to avoid misattribution
- that has not yet reached its apex.
